Life's Work Champion Award Criteria

This award is given to one faculty member and one staff member OUTSIDE of the Center for Life's Work team (this award is given BY the Center for Life's Work team to ANOTHER member of our campus).

The Center for Life's Work recognizes that the entire Nazareth community plays a role in preparing students for their life's work. This award (one faculty member, one staff member) celebrates individuals beyond the Center for Life's Work team who actively and enthusiastically partner with students to design and pursue their unique paths to careers and lives of meaning. Successful nominees should exemplify support, partnership, and/or education of Nazareth students in two or more of the following pillars of the life's work model:

- Realize Potential: Helping students identify, clarify, and reflect on values, interests, and skills - discerning what matters most to them as they design a life of meaning
- Build Relationships: Actively reinforcing, sharing, and developing a wider community of champions and connectors through which students can explore and advance their life's work.
- Pursue Meaningful Experiences: Encouraging, bridging, and building experiences to develop the knowledge and skills to positively impact individuals, organizations, systems and communities.
- Tell Your Story: Educating and preparing students on how best to share their achievements, skills, knowledge and purpose with authenticity and confidence.

While support, partnership, and education will take a variety of forms, some examples might include: offering personalized career preparation and exploration; collaborating on interprofessional practice initiatives to provide opportunities to connect and address pressing societal and global challenges; actively engaging and supporting a variety of CFLW initiatives; fostering involvement in meaningful community service opportunities; playing an extraordinary role in supporting transformative internships, field work, and professional hands-on learning experiences; carefully mentoring students through the process of crafting personal statements and other application materials; and connecting students with employers, alumni and community organizations...just to name a few examples!
